Suzy Kolber

Class of 1982

Professional Sportscaster, Co-Producer & Anchor

Anchor and reporter Suzy Kolber originally joined ESPN in 1993 and has since become a mainstay of the network's NFL coverage. Host of the year-round, weekday show NFL Insiders, Kolber also serves as on-site host for Monday Night Football's pregame show, Monday Night Countdown.

During ESPN's annual Super Bowl week coverage and NFL Draft telecasts, Kolber plays a major role in the network's studio presentations. She has conducted red carpet and green room interviews at the NFL Draft since 2004.

Widely praised for elevating the NFL sideline role, Kolber was a part of ESPN's weekly prime time NFL game for a decade, first on Sunday Night Football (2001-2005) and continuing on Monday Night Football during the series' first six seasons on ESPN (2006-2011).

In 2006, Kolber experienced one of her career highlights when she worked the sidelines for ABC Sports' broadcast of Super Bowl XL in Detroit and contributed to the network's pre-game show.

The first female recipient of the Maxwell Football Club's Sports Broadcaster of the Year Award in 2006, Kolber was also named to Sports Business Daily's 2004 list of the 10 favorite sports TV personalities of the past 10 years.

When ESPN2 launched in 1993, Kolber joined the company as co-host for the network's SportsNight, which debuted October 1. She later anchored on SportsCenter, was a reporter on College GameDay, a co-host of the X Games ('95-'96), and hosted ESPN2's SportsFigures, which used sports celebrities and analogies to teach math and physics.

Kolber left ESPN for Fox Sports in November 1996 where she anchored a nightly sports news program and reported from NFL games in addition to hosting figure skating and weekend NHL coverage. Upon her return to ESPN in 1999, Kolber served as host of NFL Matchup (1999-2003) and contributed "Backstage" segments to Monday Night Countdown. In past NFL off-seasons, Kolber served as a SportsCenter anchor and on-site host for ESPN's coverage at the French Open (2004-08) and Wimbledon (2003-2009). In 2000 and 2001 she hosted the X Games and Winter X Games. She returned to the event as co-host of the Winter X Games in Aspen in 2006. Her credits also include hosting Triple Crown horse racing events for ESPN as well as ESPN pre-race NASCAR Countdown shows on ABC in 2007, often during the same weekends as MNF games in the fall.

Kolber came to ESPN from WPEC-TV in West Palm Beach, FL, where she was a weekend sports anchor and weekday feature reporter since December 1991. In 1991, Kolber's freelance assignments included work as a reporter/producer for Breeders' Cup Newsfeed in Greenwich, CT; a field producer for Inside Edition in New York; a sports specials producer for WCIX-TV in Miami, and a producer/director for NFL Films.

From 1989-1990, she freelanced as a sports specials producer for WPLG-TV in Miami. In addition, she produced two magazine shows, Cowboys Special Edition in Irving, TX (1990-1991) and Greyhound Racing America in Miami (1988-1990). From 1985-1989, she produced the 5:30p sportscast at WTVJ-TV in Miami, winning a 1988 local Sports Emmy.

Kolber graduated from the University of Miami in 1986 with a BA in Telecommunications. While an undergraduate, she worked at Dynamic Cable in Coral Gables as a sports director (1984-1986). After graduation, she worked at CBS Sports in New York as a videotape coordinator (1986).

Josh Tower

Class of 1988

Broadway Leading Man & Television Actor

Josh Tower grew up in Ambler with his mom Gail and sister, former UDHS basketball star Cory, Class of '92. So many memories held near and dear at UD. The best memories are of people and friends that touched his life each in their own singular, individual and special way. Those relationships helped make him the artist that he is today.

For over two decades Josh has been living the dream, doing what he loves: working in New York and Los Angeles in television and theater. Now with wife Karen, son Luke and daughter Marlowe, the beautiful journey continues.

Josh holds a BA from Temple University, an MFA from the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill and is a Veteran of the U.S. Army.

Josh Tower claims he was never as good a football player as he thought he was; dropping nearly every pass sent his way. Glasses were needed. Several other claims he makes: Nobody else knows this but....he is a mutant. So...Shhhhhh. Most recently he climbed naked to the summit of Mt. Everest. It was cold. He doesn't know magic but will make you BELIEVE! Thank you for this honor. To be remembered in any regard is an honor but to go into the "UD Hall of Fame" is just BEYOND all. Peace and Love.

Arts, Entertainment & Communications

John Tartaglia

Class of 1996

Tony & Emmy-nominated Broadway & Television Star
Producer, Performer & Puppeteer

At the young age of 16, John Tartaglia began his career in children's television when he was cast as a puppeteer on the world-renowned Sesame Street. John went on to create, executive produce and star in his own preschool series, Johnny and the Sprites, for Disney Junior. The series was nominated for eight Emmy Awards, including a nomination for "Outstanding Performance in a Children's Series" for Tartaglia.

He earned a Tony Award nomination for his Broadway debut in the dual roles of Princeton and Rod in the hit musical Avenue Q. Other Broadway roles include Lumiere in Disney's Beauty and the Beast and Pinocchio in Shrek the Musical.

As a director, John helmed the national tours of Dinosaur Train Live and Sid the Science Kid Live, Claudio Quest (New York Musical Theatre Festival), winner of six awards including "Best in Fest;" The Wizard of Oz, Tarzan and Shrek the Musical at the St Louis MUNY; Lord Tom (York Theater); Shrek The Halls (Dreamworks Theatricals); Because of Winn Dixie (Arkansas Rep); and more.

John stars as Kip on Jim Henson's Word Party on NETFLIX. John wrote the acclaimed Off-Broadway musical ImaginOcean that has been re-imagined as a television series, currently airing on PBS Kids called Jim Henson's Splash and Bubbles. John plays Splash, Tidy and Maury and serves as its Creator and Co-Executive Producer. More can be found about John's work at www.johntartagliaproductions.com

Arts, Entertainment & Communications

Josh Singer

Class of 1990

Academy Award-winning Screenwriter

Television Writer & Producer

Josh Singer was involved in many extracurricular activities at Upper Dublin including the math club, drama club, video club, chorus, wrote for the school newspaper and played on the school's baseball team. He was awarded the Upper Dublin Medal for Outstanding Male Student, was named class valedictorian, a Presidential scholar and a National Merit Scholar.

Josh graduated magna cum laude from Yale University with distinction in Mathematics and Economics. While at Yale he was a member and business manager of both The Whiffenpoofs and The Yale Alley Cats. Prior to starting graduate school he did internships at Nickelodeon in New York and The Disney Channel in Los Angeles. As a result of this he developed an interest in script writing. He then obtained his JD from Harvard Law School and an MBA from Harvard Business School.

After Josh graduated from Harvard, he moved to Los Angeles and sought advice on how to break into the industry in Hollywood from a former classmate at Yale who advised him to write a mock script for a show he liked. At the time he enjoyed The West Wing and so wrote a script and through some luck, had the script taken to show runner John Wells. He was then hired as a staff writer for The West Wing, where he worked for the final three seasons.

In 2012 he wrote the screenplay for The Fifth Estate, which focused on Julian Assange and WikiLeaks. The movie was panned and did not do well at the box office. Josh says that experience was very difficult but he remains proud of that work and feels it laid the foundation for his next screenplay, Spotlight.

In 2015 he co-wrote the screenplay for Spotlight, the story of the Boston Globe investigation of the Archdiocese of Boston's cover-up of priest sexual abuse and the societal issues it raises. The movie was one of the most acclaimed movies of the year, with six Academy Award nominations and two wins - one for best picture and for Best Original Screenplay for Singer and his co-writer, Tom McCarthy.

In 2012, Josh married the American novelist Laura Dave. They reside in Los Angeles.

Business & Law

Michael R. Stiles

Class of 1963

Philadelphia Phillies Executive VP & COO
U.S. Attorney, Trial Judge & Philadelphia Prosecutor

In April of 2001, Michael Stiles was hired by the Philadelphia Phillies Major League Baseball Club as their Vice President for Administration and Operations. In that capacity, Stiles was responsible for the general administration of the Phillies Front Office as well as for overseeing ballpark and game day operations. In February of 2015, Stiles was promoted to the position of Executive Vice President and Chief Operating Officer, spearheading all business operations and supervising the general administration of the club.

As an attorney since 1971, Stiles held significant positions in public service for almost 30 years before joining the Phillies. From 1993 until 2001, he served as the United States Attorney for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania; before that he served for more than 10 years as an elected trial judge in the Court of Common Pleas of Philadelphia County. Prior to that, he worked as a trial attorney and supervisor in the Philadelphia District Attorney's Office for 12 years, the last two of which he served as First Assistant District Attorney of Philadelphia

Stiles obtained his undergraduate degree in Political Science from the University of Pennsylvania, and his law degree, with honors, from Villanova University School of Law, where he was the Articles Editor of the Law Review. He has taught trial advocacy courses at Temple University School of Law, as well as undergraduate Criminal Justice courses there. He has served as the Chairperson of the Woodlynde School Board of Directors and on the Board of Directors of United Way of Southeastern Pennsylvania. He formerly served on the Board of Trustees for Thomas Jefferson University. He presently serves on the Executive Committee of the Board of Directors of the Committee of Seventy, a Philadelphia government watchdog group.

Michael and Leslie Stiles live in the East Falls section of Philadelphia. They have two adult children, Eric Stiles and Jacqueline Cuddeback; one son-in-law, John Cuddeback; and three grandchildren, Jack, Whitney, and Cole Cuddeback.

Business & Law

Scott, Guy & Jonathan Orens

Classes of 1972, 1974 & 1978

Regional Real Estate Developers & Property Managers

Scott Orens, Principal/Officer

Scott graduated from Muhlenberg College with a Bachelor of Science degree. As president of Orens Brothers development and construction companies, Scott is primarily responsible for investigating new developments and acquisitions of typically land or vacated buildings to keep the company growing and evolving. His day to day activities consist of construction management duties for current development projects, oversight of the general contracting division, and creating and cultivating a following of equity partners and investors. Scott is a licensed real estate broker in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. He has been in the construction and development fields since the mid-1970's and has general contracting, master plumbing and master electrician licenses in the City of Philadelphia.

Guy Orens, Principal/Officer

Guy graduated from the University of Pennsylvania. He has been active in real estate development, marketing, and management since the 1980's. Guy's responsibilities include being senior financial officer for all business operations, overseeing all monies, collections and accounts payable. He is the primary liaison with accountants, lawyers and insurance companies, and is responsible for reviewing all documents and records. His dynamic approach enabled the Orens Brothers to turn around distressed buildings after other management companies had failed. He has been a key factor in building and maintaining a multitude of management contacts and projects. Guy has a Pennsylvania real estate brokerage license and currently is primarily involved in maintaining and expanding Orens Brothers real estate portfolio, and developing new management contracts.

Jon Orens, Principal/Officer

Jon graduated from Ursinus College with a BA in Political Science. While originally supervising construction and renovations to various developments, today - with the use of his real estate brokerage licenses in Pennsylvania and New Jersey - he heads the sales and rentals division of Orens Bros. Real Estate, Inc. He is responsible for developing and marketing effective and flexible strategies for both investment and owner-occupied properties. Jon sits on the Board of Directors of the Greater Philadelphia Association of Realtors, a position held since 1995. He has received several awards and Philadelphia City Council citations for his activity with the Association, and currently has GRI, SRES and ABR designations. He has taught entry level real estate courses for aspiring real estate licensees at the Temple University Real Estate Institute since 1995 as well as ethics training for the Greater Philadelphia Association of Realtors since 2003.

Business & Law

Alex Furmansky

Class of 2003

Entrepreneurial Business Leader & CEO

Alex Furmansky is an American entrepreneur and businessman. He graduated magna cum laude from the University of Pennsylvania in 2007 with degrees from both the School of Engineering and the Wharton School of Business. After graduation, Alex worked on Wall Street as an investment banker with Evercore Partners. He then joined OpenPeak as the Director of Business Development.

In 2011, he resigned to launch his first venture, Sparkology, the invite-only online dating service in New York City. Alex sold the business after growing it to over 20,000 members.

In 2013, Alex founded Budsies, the company which turns artwork and photographs into 3D custom stuffed toys. Budsies has brought to life over 35,000 custom plush creations and recently launched Petsies, which makes plush lookalikes of people's real pets.

Through its philanthropic Budsies Pals program, the company brings the magic of Budsies to children battling illness at hospitals including Joe DiMaggio's Children's Hospital and the Children's Hospital of Atlanta. You may have seen Alex on the reality TV series Shark Tank, where he turned down offers from two of the Sharks.

Alex is a contributing writer to Inc. Magazine and Huffington Post, and appeared on CNBC, BuzzFeed, and Fox News, among others. He enjoys sailing and welcomes anyone to stop by the Budsies office for a game of ping pong, anytime!

Education

Robert C. Field

Class of 1958

Upper Dublin Teacher, Coach, Principal & Leader Tireless Advocate for Excellence in UD Schools

Robert Field graduated from Muhlenberg College with a BS in Biology and Chemistry. He received his MS in Educational Administration from Temple University.

Bob worked in the School District of Upper Dublin for his entire career which spanned 36 years, 1965-2001. He was a science teacher from 1965-1973 at Upper Dublin Junior High School, moving into an Assistant Principal position. He then served as Principal at Fort Washington Elementary School, Three Tuns Junior High School, Sandy Run Middle School and Upper Dublin High School. Bob was a known and lauded advocate for the staff and students who came under his supervision. He provided a very positive environment which enabled all to teach and learn while truly enjoying their time at school. He was considered fair, always visible and always accessible.

Highlights of Bob's career include Sandy Run Middle School (1983-1984) and Upper Dublin High School (1994-1996) each being awarded a National Blue Ribbon for Excellence by the US Department of Education as outstanding schools in America. Among other programs, he started the Advanced Placement (AP) program at Upper Dublin High School; UDHS was one of the only schools in Montgomery County that taught Calculus-2 at the time. He also supported the infusion of technology into curriculum; advocated for origination of new clubs and student activities; initiated the Senior Class Trip to Disneyworld, the Post Prom, set up of Instructional Planning Centers, the Allied Arts Show, Computer Labs, lights in Cardinal Stadium, the Career Center, the Head Start Program, and more. Bob hired the first female athletic director in Montgomery County, and, supported the introduction of four new Varsity sports. He was awarded the Outstanding Educator of Montgomery County.

Bob was married to Fern Field until her passing in 2016. They have two children who are also Upper Dublin alumni. Bruce Field ('87) and Carolyn Field DeLong ('89).

Bob's personal interests include golf, fishing, and attending his grandkids' events. He served on the Board of Old York Road Country Club and for 12 years on the Gwynedd Hunt Homeowners' Association Board.

Education

Rudi K. Klobach

Class of 1962

Dedicated Educator & Celebrated Soccer Coach

Upon graduation from Upper Dublin High School, Rudi Klobach attended Thiel College near Pittsburgh where he received his BS in Education majoring in English and German. He completed post graduate work in Education at Temple University. His first teaching position found him in Weatherly, PA teaching English and German commensurate with coaching Boys Soccer and Track. Teaching and coaching these two sports would become a major focus of his career path. His dedication to these interests touched many lives and achieved for him many awards. Besides being an excellent coach, he was an extremely proficient athlete.

Circumstances brought him back to the Philadelphia area where he taught as a permanent substitute teacher in Philadelphia School District's Northeast High School for a few years before accepting a teaching and coaching position in the Delran Public Schools in New Jersey. It was in Delran where Rudi, affectionately known as "Coach K," and "The Red Baron," really came into his own. He built the school's German Language Program from one period a day to full-time, teaching 5 levels; while also teaching one German class at the middle school. Every other year Rudi would take his German students to Germany, Austria, and Switzerland as part of their foreign language experience. He established the German Club and coached the Girls Soccer Team through many winning seasons.

As Soccer Coach, Rudi coached 18 girls who became First Team All-League, seven girls First Team All-South Jersey, four All-State, and two who were High School All-Americans. One of Rudi's players, Carli Lloyd Hollins, is a two-time Olympic gold medalist (2008, 2012) among many other honors, currently playing for Manchester City in the FA Women's Super League in Europe and the United States Women's National Soccer Team.

Rudi was selected twice to coach the South Jersey Senior All-Star Game and the State Senior All-Star Game. Rudi was asked to coach soccer at the World Scholar Athlete Games in Rhode Island for four summers. He was selected as Coach of the Year in South Jersey and also named State Regional Coach of the Year.

After retiring from Delran, Rudi continued to coach soccer and track in several school districts including Cherry Hill, Gateway Regional, Woodbury and Glassboro. In 2011 he received the crowning honor of his career when he was inducted into the South Jersey Soccer Hall of Fame. He completed his soccer coaching career with 256 wins.

Both in the classroom and on the field Rudi Klobach emphasized the importance of individual growth and development along with respect for others. He cared about his students encouraging them to work hard, excel, and "enjoy the game."

Rudi Klobach passed away in January 2015 due to progressive complications from ALS.

Education

Richard Mitchell Brown, III

Commander, U.S. Navy (Retired)

Class of 1964

Professor of National Security & Naval Strategist
Naval Aviator and Combat Seawolf Pilot

A few weeks after graduating from Upper Dublin High School, Mitch entered the US Naval Academy and never looked back. UDHS prepared him well though. After four years at USNA, Mitch was commissioned in June of 1968 and spent the next 26 years on active duty in the Navy. He received flight training in Pensacola, where he also was part of the Naval Air Training Command Choir.

Upon earning his "Navy Wings" in December of 1969, his first squadron duty was flying Navy Huey Helicopter Gunships with the HAL-3 SEAWOLVES in the Mekong River Delta along the South Vietnam/Cambodian border, where he logged more than 700 combat flights. Subsequent operational tours included flying Carrier-based Anti-Submarine helicopters, HS-7 on the USS Saratoga (Atlantic) and later HS-4 on the USS Kitty Hawk (Pacific/IO).

Mitch also spent two years as the AIRBOSS of the USS Denver, LPD-9 (Pacific). His staff tours included Helicopter Training & Readiness Officer for Commander, US Naval Air Forces Pacific in San Diego, Head of the Strategic Analysis Branch for Commander US Naval Forces Europe in London, and Navy NATO Strategy & Concepts Officer on the OPNAV staff in the Pentagon.

Mitch spent his last five years on active duty as the Navy's First Chair of Strategic Planning, in the National Security Affairs Department in Monterey, CA where he is an Adjunct Professor, but now for the Naval War College/College of Distance Education.

Mitch Brown has more than 50 years of Federal service with the US Navy, including 30 years of teaching; three years of undergraduate-level at the University of Pennsylvania NROTC Unit; 10 years of graduate masters-level with the National Security Affairs Department of the Naval Postgraduate School (NPS); and 17 years of graduate level masters and PME/JPME teaching for the Naval War College, College of Distance Education (NWC/CDE) at its NPS campus in Monterey, CA. Professor Brown has successfully taught more than 3,000 students in six different courses in multiple iterations for NPS, and 112 sections of National and Theater Security Decision Making courses in various iterations and configurations.

In addition to his BS in Engineering from the US Naval Academy (1968) with a major in Foreign Affairs and a minor in Russian, Mitch later earned an MBA (1976) from the Wharton School at the University of Pennsylvania, an MA (1980, Distinguished Graduate) in National Security Affairs (Scientific and Technical Intelligence) from the Navy Postgraduate School (NPS), and the Naval Command and Staff Diplomas (2002) from the NWC/CDE.

Vice Admiral, US Navy (Retired)

Class of 1958

Submarine Commander, Materiel Professional & Commander, Naval Sea Systems Command

Vice Admiral George Sterner, United States Navy (Retired) served in the United States Navy for 36 years. His career included command of two nuclear submarines, Submarine Torpedo Program Manager and Program Executive Officer for Submarine Combat Systems and Torpedoes. He commanded the Naval Sea Systems Command where he was responsible for design, construction and life-cycle support of all naval ships, submarines and small craft. Following his Navy career, Admiral Sterner joined Walt Disney Imagineering in 1998 as Vice President for System Integration on the MS Disney Wonder cruise ship construction team in Marghera, Italy.

He returned to the defense industry in 1999 as the Raytheon Company Naval Mission Area Executive. Admiral Sterner retired from Raytheon in 2005 after three years as Vice President for Strategic Pursuits, which included oversight of a modest company-wide investment account for future technology and growth. He was also a Raytheon Executive Coach for mid-grade, high-potential managers.

Admiral Sterner served on the Penn State Applied Research Laboratory Advisory Board and was a member of the Industrial and Professional Advisory Council (IPAC) for the Pennsylvania State University College of Engineering. During this period until his retirement in 2015 he was Managing Director and co-owner of an independent consulting company in Virginia.

Admiral Sterner received an NROTC scholarship to Pennsylvania State University where he earned a BS (1962) in Aerospace Engineering, with honors, and is a member of Phi Kappa Phi and Tau Beta Pi honor societies. He also holds an MS (1968) in Operations Research from the Naval Postgraduate School, Monterey, CA and completed the Advanced Management Program (1985) at the Harvard University Graduate School of Business. He was named a Distinguished Alumni Fellow of Penn State in 1995 and honored as an Outstanding Engineering Alumni in 2007.

George and his wife Louise have two children – Susan and Robert, and three grandchildren – Nicolas, Eva and Misha.

Additionally, he participated in the Boy Scouts of America with Troop 542 (achieving the rank of Eagle Scout) as well as being a member of the Philadelphia Youth Orchestra.

Following his graduation from Upper Dublin, Rob attended the US Military Academy at West Point, NY. As a Cadet, he was a member of the Varsity Crew Team and President of the German Club. He graduated in 2002 with a BS in German. Upon graduation, he received his Army commission as a Second Lieutenant and was assigned to the Aviation Branch. Rob attended flight school at Fort Rucker, AL and graduated in 2003 as a rated UH-60 Blackhawk Pilot.

Rob was first assigned to the 12th Aviation Brigade in Giebelstadt, Germany, where he served three years as an Adjutant, Platoon Leader, Executive Officer and UH-60 Pilot in Command. Following his tour to Germany, Rob assessed for the 160th Special Operations Aviation Regiment (Airborne) for service in Savannah, GA. Rob's duties within the 160th SOAR(A) included Platoon Leader, Company Commander, Operations Officer (S3) and MH-47 Chinook Fully Mission Qualified Pilot in Command. Within Rob's time with the 160th SOAR(A), he also served a tour with the 25th Infantry Division in Hawaii as a CH-47 Chinook Company Commander and graduated from the Command and General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth, KS. He completed an MA in International Relations from Webster University.

Rob has deployed more than a dozen times to Iraq, Afghanistan and other locations around the world. He currently serves at the Pentagon in Washington, DC on the Army Staff as the Senior Army Special Operations Aviation Officer within the Special Operations Division. His military awards and decorations include the Silver Star for Valor, four Bronze Stars, three Air Medals, the Combat Action Badge, the Senior Aviator Badge, the Parachutist Badge, and the Army Staff badge. He is rated in the TH-67, OH-58, UH-60, CH-47 and MH-47 helicopters.

Rob's father (Keith '73), uncle (Kenneth '70), and brother (Scott '01) are all graduates of Upper Dublin High School.

Government & Military

Major William J. Hackenbracht

Class of 1998

US Army Special Operations Civil Affairs Officer

Major William Hackenbracht credits the lessons he learned and the experiences he gained at Upper Dublin as the foundation for a meaningful military career balanced with building a family. This foundation - of Academics, Athletics and Community Service - directly translated to a profession that is mentally and physically challenging, and one that offers opportunities to make a difference in the world.

Bill has deployed into combat with the 173rd Airborne Brigade in Afghanistan, where he authored and coordinated a regional development initiative for provinces along the Afghanistan-Pakistan border. After assessment and selection to the Army Special Operations Forces as a Civil Affairs Officer, Bill deployed repeatedly to the Syrian border and refugee camps in Jordan - where he assisted the U.S. Embassy and other government agencies to address the breakdown in security and humanitarian conditions caused by the Syrian Civil War. Before assuming company command in 3rd Special Forces Group at Fort Bragg, NC, Bill served as the lead planner and liaison to the U.S. Department of State for Special Forces teams assisting the Libyan Army's campaign to defeat ISIS.

Bill's awards and recognitions include the Upper Dublin Medal for Outstanding Male Student and class valedictorian; Boy Scouts of America's Eagle Scout Award; the Department of State Meritorious Honor Award; and multiple Joint, Army, Navy and Marine Corps awards as well as the Expert Field Medical Badge and Master Parachutist Badge.

He and his wife, Leslie, a former Foreign Service Officer with the U.S. Agency of International Development, met while in Jordan and currently reside in Durham, NC.

Christopher M. Clark, M.D.

Class of 1964

Neurologist & Groundbreaking Researcher for Alzheimer's Disease Detection & Therapies

Chris Clark, MD, was a neurologist who was deeply committed to research. His passion was to help develop efficient and clinically applicable methods for the early and reliable diagnosis of Alzheimer's Disease (AD), methods that could be readily adopted into primary care practice. According to his colleagues, he had a particular talent for doing this.

Chris finished his neurology residency at the Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center in 1977. He spent the next seven years in the Neurology Department with the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine. In 1985, he joined the Duke University Medical Center where he and a colleague initiated the multicenter Consortium to Establish a Registry for Alzheimer's Disease (CERAD), which was the first effort in the United States to standardize the clinical, cognitive, and neuropathological assessment of AD. The standardized instruments of CERAD have been used globally and are now published in at least 12 languages. While at Duke, he also co-developed the Dementia Severity Rating Scale which could be completed by a family member and whose scores assisted in diagnosing dementia.

He returned to the University of Pennsylvania in 1990 where he spent the next 17 years as the Director of the Clinical Core of the National Institute of Aging.

In 2008 he retired from the University of Pennsylvania faculty and became the Medical Director at Avid Radiopharmaceuticals on the Research Campus of the University of Pennsylvania. It was in this role that he led the investigative team that ultimately demonstrated the ability of a florbetapir PET scan to detect brain deposits of beta amyloid. This landmark research, published in the Journal of the American Medical Association (JAMA) in January of 2011, represented a key advance in the development of clinically applicable AD diagnostics. It was also the culmination of Chris's career. He presented the case for acceptance of florbetapir to the FDA, and it was granted four months after his death.

According to his closest colleagues, he was a masterful clinician, widely loved and revered by his patients and their families and highly regarded as a hard-working team player by his peers. In addition, he enjoyed horseback riding, dogs, woodworking, history, good food and drink, and biking. Chris died in January 2012 from the effects of a sarcoma a few weeks after his 65th birthday.

Paul F. Mansfield, M.D., F.A.C.S.

Class of 1975

Professor of Surgery and Vice President, MD Anderson Cancer Center Internationally Recognized Pioneering Surgical Oncologist

Paul F. Mansfield, MD, is Vice President of Acute Care Services, and Professor of Surgical Oncology at MD Anderson Cancer Center. Dr. Mansfield earned a BS in Chemical Engineering from Drexel University in 1979. In 1983, he received his MD at Jefferson Medical College in Philadelphia followed by surgical residency at Pennsylvania Hospital.

After completing a Fellowship in Surgical Oncology at MD Anderson, he became Assistant Professor with the Department of Surgical Oncology in 1991 and promoted to Associate Professor in 1997. Dr. Mansfield went on to become Professor of Surgical Oncology in 2003 and Deputy Chairman of this department in 2007. In 2009 he was appointed Head of Emergency Services at MD Anderson. In May of 2011, he was named Vice President for Acute Care Services.

Dr. Mansfield is certified with the American Board of Surgery and has special interests in appendiceal cancer and gastric cancer. He has authored or co-authored over 160 articles in peer-reviewed publications, numerous book chapters and has given countless presentations at national and international conferences.

Dr. Mansfield has received numerous awards including the Clinical Research Fellowship Trainee Award in 1988, the American Cancer Society's Clinical Oncology Fellowship Award in 1990, Outstanding Teacher Award in 1994, the University Cancer Foundation Faculty Achievement Award for Patient Care in 2002; the Jacob Ehrenzeller Award in 2009, and Patients' Choice Award and Castle Connolly America's Best Doctors for many years.

Dr. Mansfield's is involved in collaborative research in the fields of melanoma, gastric cancer and cancer of the appendix. He is one of the pioneers of Hyperthermic Intraperitoneal Chemotherapy (HIPEC). He was an early advocate for staging laparoscopy and peritoneal washings in gastric cancer, which now, are part the standard of care for this disease. Dr. Mansfield also pioneered the use of neoadjuvant chemoradiation therapy in gastric cancer, which has resulted in some of the longest disease free survival rates for this disease ever reported. He is also the Principal Investigator for the Non-carcinoid Tumor of the Appendix prospective database, which is one of the largest in the world.

Debra Somers Copit, M.D., F.A.C.R.

Class of 1981

Diagnostic Radiologist, Breast Imaging Specialist & Associate Professor of Radiology

Debra Somers Copit, MD, graduated from the University of Pennsylvania in 1981, majoring in Anthropology and minoring in Spanish and Chemistry (magna cum laude, Phi Beta Kappa). Staying in Philadelphia, she completed medical school in 1989 at Jefferson Medical College and started a residency at Einstein. After meeting her husband while a medical student, she transferred to University of Texas Southwestern in Dallas for her final year of residency as he completed a two year plastic and reconstructive surgery fellowship. Copit then did a fellowship in breast imaging at the Susan G. Komen Center at Baylor in Dallas. She and her husband returned to Philadelphia where she became the Chief of Breast Imaging at Einstein in 1995, a position she holds today.

Professionally, Dr. Copit is dedicated to finding breast cancer and to teaching medical students and residents. She serves on many local, state and national committees on breast imaging. She has pursued much clinical research and has been involved with digital breast tomosynthesis since its infancy before FDA approval; Copit completed some of the work that led to FDA approval. She also participated as a researcher in one of the largest studies in mammography of close to a half million women that showed that tomosynthesis is superior to 2D mammography. These results were published in the Journal of the American Medical Association (JAMA) in 2014.

Debra Somers Copit has received the Outstanding Educator Award from the house staff at Einstein in 2008 and Outstanding Researcher/Educator Award in Philadelphia from United Healthcare/Philadelphia Business Journal in 2014. In 2012 she received the Founders Award, Living Beyond Breast Cancer's highest honor, for her work with that organization.

Somers Copit says her greatest accomplishment is her family: her husband of almost 25 years, Steve, who is the Chief of Plastic Surgery at Jefferson; and their two sons, Scott, age 17 and Robbie, age 15; both of whom attend the Episcopal Academy. A favorite family activity is skiing and all are animal lovers, caring for four dogs and one horse.

H. William Gift

Class of 1963

Upper Dublin Elected & Appointed Official Emergency Services First Responder & Community Volunteer

Bill Gift was a member of the 1961 undefeated football team at Upper Dublin. He then went on to Penn State for two years and took classes at Temple University.

For 36 years he was President of a local plastics fabrication company, Tubro Company, Inc., a family-owned company located in Ivyland, PA.

His greatest accomplishments came in the area of volunteerism and community service. Bill served for seven years on the Upper Dublin Township Planning Agency Advisory Board from 1985-1992, a volunteer board appointed by the Board of Commissioners, charged with reviewing land development plans and making recommendations prior to legislative action.

In 1992 Bill was elected to the Upper Dublin Board of Commissioners as the Ward 4 Commissioner, winning re-election in 1996. He served two terms as the President of the Board from 1996 until 2000. During his eight years as a Commissioner, the Board took on the issues of selling the township-owned sewer system to a private company, renovating and expanding the municipal complex, addressing land development and rezoning, and managing open space acquisition and improvement.

Bill is a long-time member of the Fort Washington Fire Company, serving on their Board of Directors from 2004-2011 and from 2013-2016. He received the George Hagar Award in 2006 as Member of the Year.

Bill was involved in Angel Flight East as a volunteer mission coordinator, receiving the request from a patient or family member and arranging the flight to and from medical facilities. He is now involved with Patient Airlift Services which also arranges volunteer medical flights and free air transportation for needy individuals throughout the greater northeast region. Bill helps to recruit volunteer pilots. He also drives patients and family members from the airport to medical facilities.

He has been a member of the Ambler Community Ambulance since 2009. He currently serves as Vice President, as a member of the Budget Committee and as a member of the New Equipment Procurement Committee.

Bill is a 30-year Mason; serving his Blue Lodge as Master in 1983.

"But I believe my most recent claim to fame is that on Tuesday, March 21, 2017, I celebrated my 10th anniversary as a heart transplant recipient; and, on March 1, 2017, I marked one-year as a post-kidney transplant recipient."

Lawrence S. and Christine Jenkins Smith

Class of 1965

Supporters of Causes for Children & Families, Disaster Relief & Natural Resources Preservation

Christine Jenkins and Lawrence Smith met as 9th graders at Upper Dublin. Post-high school, Larry went on to Ithaca College where he studied Business with a concentration in Accounting, while Christine attended Cornell University to study Psychology. After graduating from Ithaca College, Larry began his career with Arthur Andersen and Company in Philadelphia. He became a partner and worked for 18 years in the tax department, specializing in International Tax Law. He then spent the next 20 years with Comcast Corporation as their Chief Financial Officer. In that role he spearheaded many mergers and acquisitions that would take Comcast from a relatively small regional cable company to one of a handful of media giants in the USA. On many occasions, he won awards from national organizations and publications as "CFO of the Year." During his life Larry sat on several non-profit boards, most recently Meadowood Senior Living and the Philadelphia YMCA. During his 15 year tenure on the board of the Y, as Chairman, he led the effort to consolidate eight Y's into one, becoming the Philadelphia Freedom Valley YMCA. Along with Christine, Larry played an instrumental role in the building of the Ambler Area YMCA. After retiring from Comcast, Larry sat on the corporate boards of Air Products, TE Connectivity and Hatfield Quality Meats. He was an active member in his local church where he served as Trustee.

Christine, having received her degree in Psychology, earned her MS in Counseling Psychology and Human Services from Chestnut Hill College. While their children were still young, Christine began part-time employment at Eagleville Hospital in the Psychology Department. She then became a Crisis Counselor at Plymouth-Whitemarsh High School serving the at-risk student population. Ten years later she founded the Center for Loss and Bereavement in Skippack, PA and held the position of Executive Director. The Center, which opened in 2000, is a non-profit organization which offers programs dealing with loss, trauma and grief. These programs include grief counseling to individuals, couples and families; special interest support groups; a children's support program called Nello's Corner; Camp Millie, a summer bereavement camp for children ages six to twelve; and, grief educational awareness presentations, seminars and workshops. Christine continues her work today at the Center, in a volunteer capacity, in development and awareness presentations. Christine served on the non-profit boards of the Perkiomen School, The Philadelphia Zoo and presently sits on the President's Council of the Natural Lands Trust. Christine has also been active in her local church where she served as a Deacon and in a variety of other volunteer capacities.

Christine and Larry raised their family on a farm in Worcester Township, Montgomery County where they enjoyed their shared love of faith, family, travel, sports of all kinds, animals and the land. They often spoke of how grateful they were to live in this country and how blessed they were to have each other. Together they would agree that their most crowning achievement in life is their family of three children, their spouses and their nine grandchildren. They were married forty-eight years. Larry passed away on April 28, 2015.

Richard A. DeMaria

Class of 1971

Physical Therapist & Cancer Recovery Advocate Nationally & Internationally-Renowned Presenter

Richard DeMaria cherishes his educational experience at Upper Dublin. He has lifelong friends, great memories and a strong affection for the entire area. Richard has lived within 15 miles of where he grew up his entire life. Richard especially cherishes the life lessons he learned while in high school. As a student athlete, he was a leader. He played Football, Golf and Track; he participated in Student Government and many other activities.

Richard attributes a then-tragic life event that happened in September of 1970 at Upper Dublin High School as the greatest life lesson he has ever had. He learned that being knocked down can offer an opportunity to get up and to rise to even higher heights.

Richard had been a varsity football player as a sophomore and junior and dedicated himself to rigorous physical regimen of training leading up to his senior year. On the very day he was named Captain of the Upper Dublin Football team, he suffered a season ending knee injury. He went from the top of his world to a hospital bed in two hours. The injury resulted in multiple subsequent surgeries and related rehabilitation episodes. During the next several years, Richard was exposed to Physical Therapists. He developed an interest in the field of Rehabilitation and pursued a professional education at the University of Pennsylvania's School of Allied Medical Professions. His becoming a Physical Therapist is directly related to his heartbreaking experience on the high school football field. Richard learned that one can make a difficult situation into a beneficial situation. He frequently speaks about the "good that can come from the bad."

Richard has focused his practice as a Physical Therapist on meeting the rehabilitative needs of people recovering from cancers. Richard cherishes his career and is especially grateful for the opportunity to have helped so many in need. He maintains a vibrant clinical practice, focusing exclusively on acutely diagnosed people or late stage, hospice care.

Richard is and has been a leader in the Oncologic Physical Therapy field. He has served as a National Officer in the American Physical Therapy Association's Oncology Section as well as the National Membership Director; he has published and presented nationally as well as internationally. Richard was on the team that introduced the concept of Rehabilitation following Breast Reconstruction in Japan. His work has helped to make rehabilitation more available and mainstream for people recovering from all treatment aspects of cancers including surgery, chemotherapy and radiation. He has received prestigious awards including the Shining Star Award from Gilda's Club and The Founders Award from Living Beyond Breast Cancer.

Richard is also very generous. He and his organization, Dynamic Rehabilitation Services, have sponsored and participated in the American Cancer Society Bike-a-Thon fundraiser 21 times. He has hosted countless fundraising parties for local and national charities and given of himself in many ways.

Richard's incredible career was spurred from the event that occurred in September of 1970. Tens of thousands of people have been helped by him. Richard reflects on the day that he perceived as the worst day of his life that somehow became one of the best things that ever happened to him. Richard uses that life lesson daily, to illuminate hope within his patients and friends.

Richard is a huge fan of Upper Dublin. He has a true affection, has supported many endeavors and continues to be proud of his early and high school education.
